

Are you Caring for Someone with Dementia?

You May Qualify for a New Treatment Trial

The Memory & Aging Program at Butler Hospital is conducting a research study of a new treatment for caregivers. We believe that helping the caregiver will help the entire family as well as the patient with Alzheimer's disease. Study participants will receive doctor visits, comprehensive assessments, and study medication free of charge. The study is designed to help caregivers who may be feeling stressed, nervous or depressed; but participants do not have to be clinically depressed in order to be included.

Participants Must

- Be adults of any age between 18 and 90
- Provide at least 20 hours/week of direct care and supervision to a person with dementia
- Have normal memory
- Be able to travel to the study clinic

For more information, please call:

401-455-6402

Memory & Aging Program,
345 Blackstone Boulevard, Providence, RI 02906
www.memorydisorder.org